

Presents and Flowers

Setting the Stage:

You've been seeing someone older for a month. He/she has treated you to dinner and the movies, has driven you places, and buys you presents and flowers. You have really enjoyed all the attention. During a party at your friend's house, he/she suggests that you leave the party and go somewhere private. Your date's body language shows that he/she wants to have sex with you. You do not want to have sex. Your date speaks first.

Person 1: Look at all the great things we've done together. I've been so good to you. C'mon, let's go be alone together.

Person 2:

Person 1: It's no big deal, it's just part of going out.

Person 2:

Person 1: I just want to be close to you.

Person 2:

Person 1: Everybody else is doing it—they just don't tell you.

Person 2:

Person 1: If you really loved me, you would.

Person 2:

Person 1: I love you, but you don't seem to care about me.

Person 2:
